If you would like to remotely access your POS System from home or another location, we recommend that you use a third-party service called LogMeIn.

LogMeIn has a paid and free version of their remote desktop software. The paid version allows for remote printing (such as printing reports to your home printer) and file transfers between computers. If you do not need these features, then the free version will be perfect for you.

Creating Your LogMeIn.com Account

The first step in setting up LogMeIn is to create an account on their username and password. To do this, perform the following steps:

1. Go to http://www.logmein.com
2. Click on the Try It Free button

3. Next, click on Access Computers Remotely
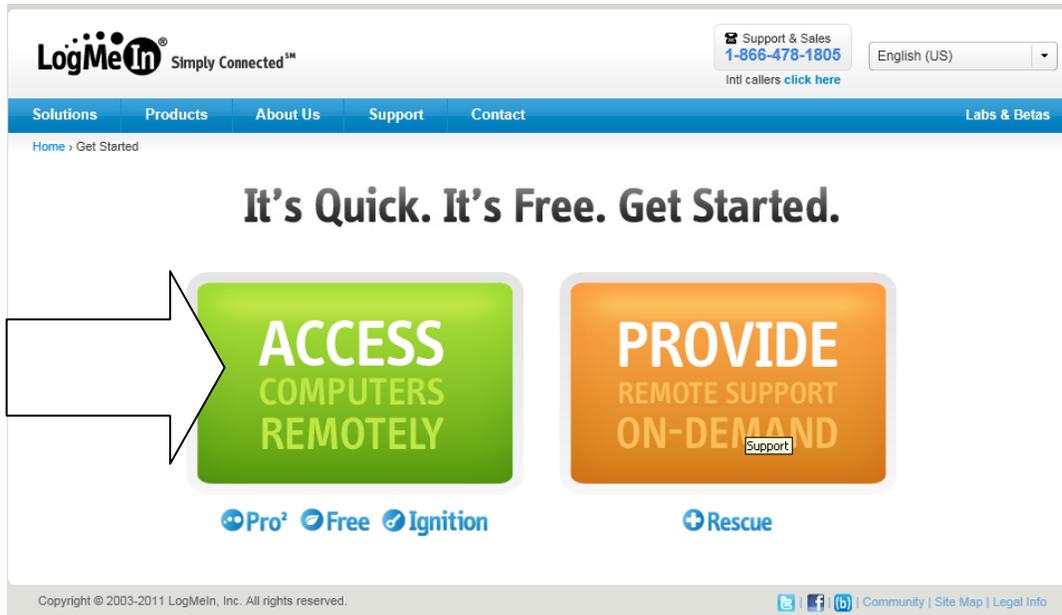

4. At this point, you will be asked to create an account. Enter your email address, a password for LogMeIn, and your country, and then click Continue.

5. If you want to connect to the machine that you are currently working on, click the Download link. Otherwise, click Add a Different Computer, and you will be emailed instructions on how to setup another system.
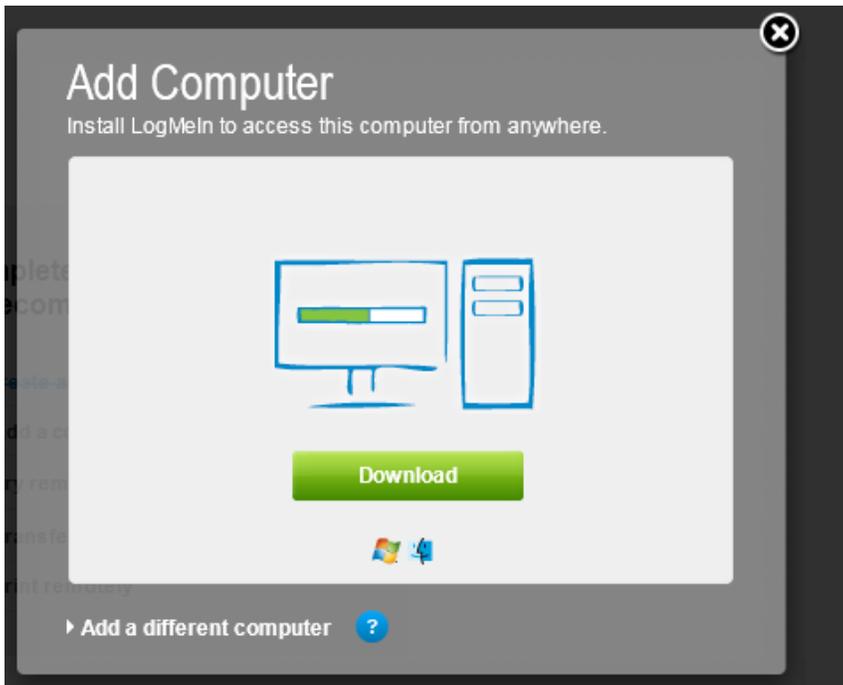

6. The LogMeIn software will need to be installed. Go ahead and install the software (this needs to be installed on the computer that you want to have access to).

7. If the installation was successful, click the Go to My Computers button.
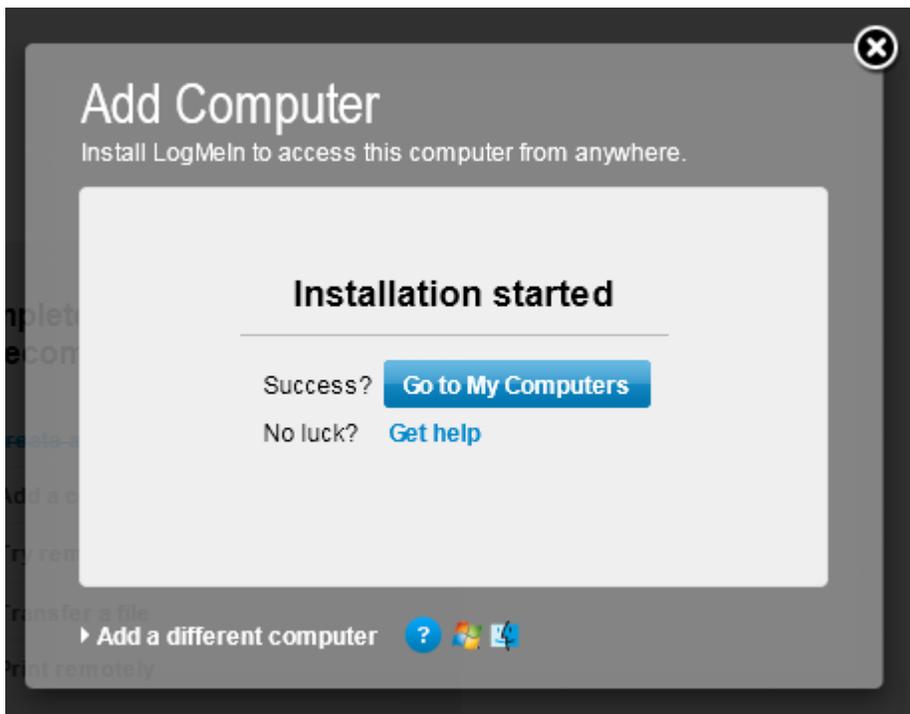

8. You will now be brought to your LogMeIn.com account. It should show the computers that can be accessed. This would indicate that the installation is successful.

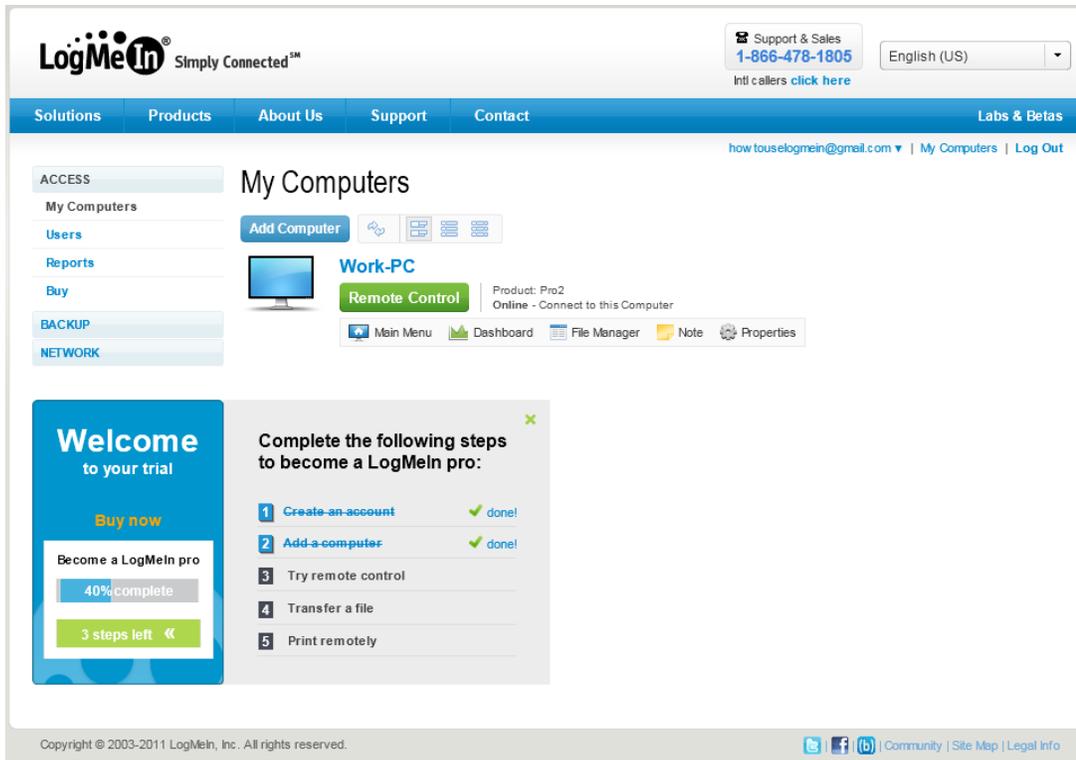

9. Before using the LogMeIn service, you will need to verify your email address. To do this, log into your email account. There should be an email from LogMeIn asking for account activation. Click the activation link to finish setting up the account.
